New Plants watering guidelines

*Water first two weeks after installation once every 2-3 days

Water week 2-4 once every 5-7 days

After a month every 7-10 days until end of season

*Check soil conditions before watering. Always check the soil to determine if water is needed. If the soil is dry at 4-7 inches deep, you should apply water.

*Water thoroughly so moisture penetrates the soil.

*Avoid frequent, light watering. Roots go where the water is. Frequent, light watering keeps the moisture near the surface and causes shallow root systems

B&B tree watering is critical factor for a tree survival after planting. Newly planted trees must receive adequate irrigation every 10-14 days.

*During the first growing season. Apply water at the edge of the planting site and allow water to run slowly, soaking the soil.

A slow-release fertilizer like root stimulation and start-n-grow should be applied each spring and will benefit bud formation in the fall.

Protect your trees from weather, insects, deer and rodents Tree wrap or tree guard should be used to protect your young tree from animal damage, sun scald and frost cracks during winter. Labor Day – Memorial day.

Remember plants are perishable items, needing watering and care. Both planted and unplanted plant material that are damaged from lack of proper care and plants damaged from animals, frost, snow, wind or other damaging weather conditions may not be covered by Jim Whiting Nursery Return Policy and Plant Guaranteed.
